Where is JD storing bulky items?

JD has introduced the very first automated storage and retrieval system (AS/RS) for bulky items in Asia's e-commerce industry, located at the company's Asia No. 1 logistics park in Langfang, Hebei province. The park in Langfang is one of three new highly automated Asia No. 1 parks JD has put into operation during this year's 618 Grand Promotion.

How many warehouses does JD logistics have?

JD Logistics currently operates nearly 100 bonded, direct mail, and overseas warehouses. Its global supply chain network includes overseas warehousing, international transfer centers, local transportation systems, and cross-border transportation routes--all supported by advanced supply chain technology.

How does technology affect JD logistics?

Technology plays a big role in JD Logistics' efficiency, and that includes automation, drones and more, both on vehicles and in warehouses. Last year, JD Logistics opened the world's first fully automated B2C warehouse in Shanghai. The warehouse can reportedly process over 200,000 items a day at full operation.

How many delivery drivers does JD have?

JD has over 65,000 delivery drivers in its own fleet. It does not outsource its last-mile delivery and has a completely different logistics strategy. There are over 515 warehouses in its nationwide transportation network, and over 90% of orders from JD.com are delivered same-day or next-day by JD's own fleet.

How does JD logistics work?

JD Logistics uses technology to help predict where product will be needed. "Most of the efficiency and speed is done at the warehouse level and predicting where [product will be needed]," Gartner said. Full truckloads of freight are loaded at the warehouse level and brought to the delivery stations for final delivery.

Does JD have a warehouse management system?

JD wanted to partly automate the receiving (goods in) processes at the company's major distribution centre in Rochdale. This would include the ability for the Warehouse Management System (WMS) to receive and manage Advanced Shipment Notification messages from key suppliers such as Adidas and Nike.
