

What can be stored in a deep top-mounted storage cabinet

Can you store pantry items in deep cabinets?

When you store pantry items in deep cabinets, it can be hard to find and access items in the back. I love Lazy Susan organizers for deep cabinet storage! They ensure you always have immediate access to any item you need with a simple turn. I recommend storing a category of pantry items on a single Lazy Susan.

What can I store in my upper kitchen cabinets?

Use your upper kitchen cabinets as a space to store lighter appliances only - such as sandwich presses, irons, small coffee makers, or your blender. Items like these are likely to be much easier to haul out of a cupboard and usually don't need to be in a prime spot in your kitchen, given how often (or not) they are used.

5. Extra cookware

Should you store heavy items in high kitchen cabinets?

Remember, heavy items are not gravity's friend. 'When it comes to deciding what to store in high kitchen cabinets, there are two main factors to consider: frequency of use and weight. The sweet spot is infrequently used and light,' says Meredith Goforth. Mary Jo agrees: 'A good example of an item you might not use a lot is a Kitchenaid stand mixer.'

How do you store pots and pans in a kitchen cabinet?

Pots and pans are heavier items. They're awkward to retrieve and store in a kitchen cabinet. Do your knees and back a favor and try one of these solutions! A stacked or pullout pot rack really helps maximize the extra storage space that often goes unused in a deep cabinet. In my kitchen, I use this stacked pan rack:

Where should kitchen items be stored?

If so, storing these items in your upper kitchen cabinets is usually a great option, given that they are used much less often compared to other kitchen essentials. 'The top shelf can be a great place to store serving dishes, drink pitchers, large bowls, and platters,' says Meredith. 'But I always warn against stacking these.'

Should you store everyday items on the top shelves?

If you have tall cabinets in your kitchen, you don't want to store everyday items on the top shelves! Use this space for those holiday party platters, chafing dishes or flower vases that you only need on occasion. This helps you free up space in more accessible areas for the items you DO use every day.
